

ANNOUNCEMENT 1

Phd Mobility Fellowships (Stipendiates) in the field of Music Therapy, Music Psychology and Music in Medicine.

Aalborg University, Denmark

The Faculty of Humanities, Aalborg University, Denmark is inviting applications for 3-5 fully funded PhD Mobility Fellowships at the Doctoral Programme in Music Therapy starting during 2010, and before 31st December 2010. The fellowships are directed towards the theoretical and/or applied use of music in health, education and social service programmes in the areas of Dementia, Autism Spectrum Disorder, Adult Psychiatry, Oncology and Neurodisability. Projects will be primarily aimed at music therapy, but can also be in the associated fields of music psychology and music in medicine.

Only graduates from Danish universities other than Aalborg, and foreign music therapists are eligible to apply for these Fellowships, and the research can be carried out in the successful applicants home countries. Salary based on a WTE will be equivalent to approximately €37,000 or €46,000 per annum over three years, depending on experience and teaching responsibilities.

The Doctoral Programme in music therapy began in 1995, and is a well developed research programme currently with more than 14 registered doctoral researchers and 15 qualified supervisors. . In 2007, the programme was awarded the prize for the most dynamic research milieu in the Humanities in Denmark. The programme is part of an international consortium of universities undertaking research in this area, including two Australian and two Norwegian universities, and one Belgium, USA, UK and Finnish university. The doctoral programme in music therapy is part of the Faculty of Humanities research school, and is placed in the Department of Communication and Psychology. The department also has a five years full-time bachelor/master programmes in Music Therapy, and in Psychology.

Registration can be for 3 year full-time study, or a mixed full-time and part-time over 4-5 years. Successful applicants must be registered before 31st December 2010.

Application forms and further information:

For further information or informal discussion, e.mail Prof. Tony Wigram at tony@hum.aau.dk. To make an application, please

Applications must include:

1. Chosen area of research (one of the five areas defined above)
2. a 2500 word summary of the project they are interested in undertaking
3. Curriculum Vitae, including details of qualifications, current and previous employment,
4. Electronic attachments of any publications to date, and Master's thesis

Closing date for applications: 16. April 2010 at 16.00.

ANNOUNCEMENT 2

Phd Scholarships in the field of Music Therapy

The Faculty of Humanities, Aalborg University, Denmark is inviting applications for PhD Scholarships at the Doctoral Programme in Music Therapy starting during 2010. The Scholarships are directed towards the theoretical and/or applied use of music in health, education and social service programmes in clinical areas of music therapy, and can also be for clinically related theoretical research. Projects will be primarily aimed at music therapy, but can also be in the associated fields of music psychology and music in medicine.

Foreign music therapists are eligible to apply for these Scholarships, which allow you to do the research in your own country, and benefit from attending PhD courses at Aalborg University. The scholarships will offer the following benefits:

- 1. Registration fees at Aalborg University are covered by the scholarship
- 2. Financial support (circa 50,000 per annum (full stiem students)) is given to help with all the research costs.
- 3. Research supervision is paid for under the scholarship scheme.
- 4. The PhD programme at Aalborg at present has 16 registered students, and a further 8-10 will be registered in 2010-2011. It is an exciting milieu with good support for all researchers.
- 5. The PhD programme in Aalborg is part of a Consortium of 9 universities internationally in USA, UK, Australia, Finland, Norway, Denmark and Belgium.

There is no salary attached to the scholarships. They are intended for people who already have income and a job.

The doctoral programme in music therapy is part of the Faculty of Humanities research school, and is placed in the Department of Communication and Psychology. The department also has a five years full-time bachelor/master programmes in Music Therapy, and in Psychology.

Registration can be for 3 year full-time study, or a mixed full-time and part-time over 3-6 years. There are no immediate deadlines for applications, which can be submitted at any time.

Application forms and further information:

For further information or informal discussion, e.mail Prof. Tony Wigram at tony@hum.aau.dk. To make an application, please

Applications must include:

5. Chosen area of research (one of the five areas defined above)
6. a 2500 word summary of the project they are interested in undertaking
7. Curriculum Vitae, including details of qualifications, current and previous employment,
8. Electronic attachments of any publications to date, and Master's thesis